New year, new home: Tracey Peart

A MUM moved into her new council home in time for Christmas and the New Year after Haringey Council's tenancy fraud investigators evicted the previous tenants.

Tracey Peart spent the festive season with her family in her new property in Stonebridge Road, Tottenham, after the house was recovered as part of an investigation into tenancy fraud.

In the last three years, the council has recovered more than 170 homes being illegally sublet – enabling families living in temporary accommodation to be housed permanently and saving the public purse more than £2million.

Tenancy fraudsters were given a temporary two-month reprieve as part of a one-off council amnesty, allowing them to avoid prosecution by handing in their keys by December 20.

Officers will now clamp down on those abusing council homes by illegally subletting them – allowing more families waiting for a home to move into a property.

Jason Arthur, Haringey Council's cabinet member for resources and culture, said: "Illegally subletting your council home stops families in real need from finding a home and I'm pleased that mums like Tracey have moved into new homes thanks to our work.

"We've given those flouting the rules a one-off chance to avoid prosecution, but they should be aware that next year we will use every power we have to prosecute them."

Every home not occupied by the registered tenant costs taxpayers about £18,000 a year and figures show that 90,000 social homes nationwide are subject to some form of tenancy fraud.

A change in the law last year means that tenancy fraud is now a criminal offence – with a prison sentence or fine of up to £5,000 for those who flout the rules.

To anonymously report any suspicions of tenancy fraud, email fraudcall@haringey.gov.uk, call Fraudwatch on freephone 0500 500 777 or write to PO Box 22727, London, N22 7WS.

TALKING ABOUT REGENERATION

Residents back plans for Tottenham

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

FAR-REACHING regeneration plans for thousands of new homes as well as community spaces and leisure facilities in the shadow of Tottenham Hotspur's rebuilt football stadium have been agreed after receiving strong backing from residents.

A design masterplan framework for the High Road west area in north Tottenham, setting out expansive public spaces, 1,200 high-quality homes and revamped transport links, has been agreed by the council's cabinet.

The scheme, which Spurs' £430million stadium rebuild helped kickstart, will transform the neighbourhood west of Tottenham High Road and includes a revamped White Hart Lane station and the demolition and rebuilding of the Love Lane Estate.

In consultation on the proposals, nearly 85 per cent of residents living on the Love Lane Estate, which will be demolished and rebuilt, and 69 per cent of everyone who responded backed plans for modern homes with a mix of family-sized houses with gardens and maisonettes with private courtyards.

More than three quarters of people who responded backed a revamped White Hart Lane station, with added support for plans for new business space, access to long-term employment opportunities and a major new public square.

The square would boast an amphitheatre for community events and a new library and enterprise centre, surrounded by cafés, bars and restaurants.

The plans build on initial consultation with the community last year, with changes directly based on feedback received through forms, public meetings and workshops with architects.

All secure council tenants on the Love Lane Estate will be guaranteed a home at a social rent in the new development, with the council aiming to phase the work so residents only have to make one move – with their neighbours – into their new home.

Alan Strickland, Haringey Council's cabinet member for housing and regeneration, said: "This is such an important step in the regeneration of Tottenham and I'm pleased to have the support of hundreds of residents.

"These plans are significant – a big step

The shape of things to come: Computer-generated images of how High Road, Tottenham, will look once the regeneration scheme is completed (above) and of a new public square (left) boasting an amphitheatre and a library and enterprise centre, surrounded by cafés, bars and restaurants towards improving the lives of local families and giving them the high-quality, modern homes they deserve.

"We've listened closely to residents and traders during the last few years as these proposals have taken shape and I'm pleased that first-class new public spaces are alongside plans for new housing.

"With the backing of local people, we have a once-in-a-generation chance to transform the opportunities for people in Tottenham. These plans will help us seize that opportunity."

The council will now work to secure a development partner for the project, which is subject to planning permission.

The public can find out more about the designs by visiting www.haringey.gov.uk/highroadwest, or by speaking to staff at the Grange Community Hub, in White Hart Lane, in January – on Tuesday mornings between 10am and noon and on Wednesday evenings between 6pm and 8pm.

Gang teenager stabbed man to death after being moved away

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

A TEENAGE gangster moved by the authorities from Enfield to Leicester for his own safety sparked a gang war in his new location which led to an innocent family being killed in a firebomb attack, it has emerged.

The circumstances surrounding Hussain Hussain, who stabbed to death sports coach Antoin Akpom, in the East Midlands city in September 2013, have identified shortcomings in the supervision of those subject to gang prevention orders.

Hours after the fatal stabbing, a gang of friends of Akpom, 20, tried to avenge his death by petrol bombing the home of Abdul Karim, a friend of Hussain's – but they mistakenly targeted a house two doors away, killing the 47-year-old wife of surgeon Tufiq Al Sattar and his three teenage children, aged 19, 17 and 15.

Enfield Council has confirmed details following a national newspaper investigation which revealed that Hussain, a Somali refugee, then aged 19, had been re-located weeks earlier to Leicester at taxpayers' expense.

He had been moved under multi-agency public protection arrangements to "more suitable, safe, secure and appropriate permanent accommodation".

His brother, Mohammed Hussain, 19, a member of the Enfield Lock-based Get Money Gang, was shot dead in Bounces Road, Edmonton, in April last year by rivals from the Dem Africans gang after he had ventured onto opposition turf as violence between the two gangs escalated.

Hussain Hussain was moved to Leicester after being released on licence from Feltham Young Offenders' Institution in June 2013 where he had been sent after breaching the terms of a detention and training order and after being convicted of affray, violent disorder and possession of a knife in the London riots in 2011.

Jailed for 22 years: Hussain Hussain, who was convicted of murder after being released on licence and moved to Leicester

Part of the conditions of his release was an injunction banning him from entering Enfield "because of his known gang affiliation and the high risk of violence if he returned".

Despite being the subject of the gang injunction when his probation ended the only supervision he was under was a voluntary scheme with Leicester City Council youth offending team.

The risk posed by Hussain had already come to the attention of authorities in 2011 after he was questioned, but released following the murder of 15-year-old Negus McClean, a member of the Dem Africans gang, who was chased down by a gang of seven hooded youths on bikes and stabbed to death in Bounces Road, Edmonton.

The Get Money Gang and the Dem Africans have been responsible for scores of tit-for-tat stabbings.

Hussain's brother was shot dead on the eve of the Negus McClean trial at which all those convicted of murder were members of the Get Money Gang.

In a statement, Enfield Council said that both Enfield and Leicester's multi-agency public protection arrangements had liaised during Hussain's move and during the last few weeks of his licence – and that significant monitoring and liaison between youth offending services in Enfield and Leicester had taken place during the transfer and during the final month of the order, which expired on September 6, 2013.

"Leicester was aware of the potential risk he posed," said an Enfield Council spokesman. "His licence ended, at which time Enfield YOS involvement ended, and Leicester YOS offered, and were working with him, on a voluntary three-month support programme which had been in operation for a week when he offended again."

"At the time the offence happened he was not on licence or under statutory supervision and there was no requirement for him to be monitored by either Leicester or Enfield councils. The only restrictions he was under was the gang injunction."

"The cost of the move to Leicester was £800 a month for accommodation, which was covered by housing benefit," he added.

Hussain has been sentenced to 22 years in prison for murder.

Business gloom and benefits misery

January

IT was a far from happy start to the year for two independent businesses in the borough as Papyrus, a kitchenware shop in Green Lanes, Winchmore Hill, and Ruby Blue, a retro gift shop, in Chase Side, Southgate, announced they would close by the end of the month.

Both outlets were facing stiff competition from internet rivals and Ruby Blu owner Emma Chapman described her decision to concentrate on online sales as a "tactical withdrawal rather than closure". "If we kept going, we would have ended up in trouble," said Mrs Chapman, who had won the retailer of the year award from Enterprise Enfield two months earlier.

■ Figures revealed by the Department for Work and Pensions revealed that 1,548 households in the borough had had their benefits cut since the £500-a-week cap came into force in 2013.

Enfield was the worst-hit area in the country and the number of people who approached the Citizens' Advice Bureau for help had risen from 2,649 between July and September 2012 to 3,500 over the same period last year.

One of those suffering was father-of-three Safiulleh Hosseini, 44, of South Eastern Avenue, Edmonton, who was out of work as a result of a back problem and was experiencing a shortfall of £180 a month.

■ A two-year-old boy died after being taken to Chase Farm Hospital by his mother, who had not realised that the accident and emergency unit had been closed down five weeks earlier.

A nurse called 999 and an ambulance took Muhammad Hashir Naveed, who was "in cardiac arrest", from Chase Farm, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, to North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton.

Paramedics tried to resuscitate the boy in the ambulance – but he was pronounced dead shortly after arriving at North Mid.

Campaigners who had fought a long battle to save Chase Farm's A&E called for the service to be reinstated.

Suffering: Safiulleh Hosseini and his family were one of more than 1,500 families in the borough of Enfield hit by the £500-a-week cap on benefits

Human barriers and concern at 'mini-Holland' plan

Protesting: Residents in Cat Hill, where lorries began arriving so that work could start on a housing development

February

PROTESTERS battling to stop a housing development in Cockfosters stepped up their campaign by forming a human barrier to prevent two lorries being driven into the site in Cat Hill.

They had been outraged the previous week when it emerged that L&Q was planning to start work on 231 homes earmarked for the former Middlesex University campus before the end of the hibernation period for a protected species of newt.

Wildlife had thrived on the site since the university moved out four years ago – and despite the campaigners' defiant efforts they were unable to prevent a bulldozer from getting on to the site the morning after their successful blockade.

■ Businesses in Enfield Town expressed serious concern at the possibility of cars being banned from Church Street as part of the borough's bid for money from the Mayor of London's £100million "mini-Holland" fund.

"They are worried they will lose passing traffic and about levels of congestion in Cecil Road," said Mark Rudling, town centre manager for Enfield Business and Retailers' Association.

But Brian Corneloues, chairman of Whitewebbs Cycling Club and eastern regional board member of British Cycling, said that segregated cycle lanes would mean motorists would no longer have to watch out for bicycles at awkward junctions.

■ A mother and daughter called for action over a drug dubbed "the forgotten thalidomide" which is believed to have caused thousands of children to be born with physical defects.

Chris Gooch, 65, of Carnarvon Avenue, Enfield, was prescribed Primodos in 1970 when she made an appointment with her GP to check if she was pregnant. When her daughter Emma was born early in 1971, some of her fingers and toes were only partially developed.

After discovering other parents were reporting similar symptoms, Chris joined the Association for Children Damaged by Hormone Pregnancy Testing. The drug was on the market for 15 years.

Parents still awaiting Hannah verdict

March

THE parents of a 20-year-old student who died while on holiday in the West Indies faced yet another delay in their quest for the truth.

Hannah Defoe was electrocuted while swimming in a hotel pool on the island of St Lucia in July 2012 and an inquest which had been due to be heard at Barnet Coroner's Court was adjourned for a third time. It was decided that an inquest taking place in St Lucia must conclude before one begins in this country.

The Defoe family's barrister revealed that they had not heard when the St Lucian authorities would be calling key witnesses to the tragedy.

■ Enfield Southgate Conservatives found themselves mired in more controversy after it was revealed that their election agent had written a litany of misogynistic comments on Facebook.

Stewart Green quit as the agent and as parliamentary assistant to the constituency's MP, David Burrowes, after railing against women's desire for equality in a series of posts on the social media site.

The 26-year-old's resignation – on the same day as International Women's Day – came just a week after Tory councillor Chris Joannides was expelled from the national party in a row over Facebook comments and images about Islam.

■ A schoolgirl from Palmers Green threatened with deportation was granted a temporary reprieve to stay in the UK following a vibrant campaign by her fellow students.

Yashika Bageerathi, 19, of Fox Lane, a pupil at Oasis Academy Hadley, in South Street, Ponders End, was at Gatwick airport on the verge of being flown to the island of Mauritius when British Airways staff refused to let her board the plane.

Yashika, whose application for asylum had been separated from her family's after she turned 18 last year and who was described by her teachers as "a model student", was taken back to Yarl's Wood detention centre, in Bedfordshire.

Financial support for small businesses - where to start?

As a small business owner, what keeps you awake at night? For many, balancing the books is top of the list. Healthy finances are crucial to allow you to both invest in your business whilst protecting it from what the future may bring. Fortunately, there is a range of government support available to help your business to be secure and most importantly, grow.

One example of a small business which has received government financial support is Trunki. Their innovatively designed products (including their famous children's suitcase) have enabled them to access a range of government products and services, helping them to take huge leaps as a business.

"Trunki has received government support in a number of ways," explains Rob Law, founder of Trunki. "Firstly, we worked hard to re-shore our manufacturing to our plastics moulding factory in Plymouth, allowing us to benefit from The Patent Box scheme."

The Patent Box enables companies to apply a lower rate of corporation tax to profits earned from patented inventions. It is being phased in over a four-year period and once the full benefit of the Patent Box is in effect (from April 2017) it will result in a ten per cent rate of corporation tax being applied to such returns.

"We have always applied for patents for all of our products to build up our IP portfolio, it's one of the most valuable assets we have" said Law. "This scheme is brilliant, allowing us to re-invest more of our earnings back into the business. It motivated us to stay in the UK and not to offshore. It rewards inventive companies too, which can only be a good thing."

"Secondly, we received government support through R&D tax credits for the development of our BoostAPak children's car seat and for the re-engineered version of our Trunki suitcases, which is now easier to manufacture in the UK and to recycle."

There are many types of financial support available to businesses with ambitions to grow. As well as the increasing variety of finance sources now available (such as crowdfunding, bank loans and peer-to-peer lending) there are many government schemes and incentives (on top of those Trunki accessed) devised to help small businesses secure the funding they need to succeed.

For example, your business may be eligible for financial support packages such as the Enterprise Investment Scheme, SMART grants or Social Investment Tax Relief. Or perhaps your business needs the support to secure initial funding to help turn your idea into a reality.

To learn about all of the finance options available to you and your business, and for more detail on how the government can support you financially, visit www.greatbusiness.gov.uk/finance

Political spats and stray cricket balls

Controversial candidate: The Twitter profile picture of William Henwood, who was standing for UKIP in Enfield Town

April

A TRIO of Tory councillors threw the party into turmoil after resigning as candidates for the forthcoming local elections – before performing an abrupt U-turn a week later.

Ertan Hurer, Elaine Hayward and her husband Robert Hayward announced their decision before walking out of a meeting held at the association's office, in Chaseville Park Road, Winchmore Hill in what an association spokesman described as the culmination of a rumbling "civil war".

However, the following week all three were back in the fold, having apparently put the disagreement behind them and thrown their hats back into the ring for the elections on May 22.

■ A cricket club's refusal to accept any liability for damage caused to neighbouring properties by stray balls had residents hot under the collar.

Winchmore Hill Sports Club sent out a letter to people living in nearby Firs Lane pointing out that it would not be taking responsibility for the consequences of balls being hit out of the ground.

In the letter, the club rejected calls to put up a fence, explaining that it would have to be "unrealistically high" in order to make any difference.

Chairman Paul Chapman said: "We will continue to look for a solution that has the agreement of all parties."

■ A UKIP council election candidate standing in Enfield courted controversy after suggesting that Lenny Henry "should emigrate to a black country".

William Henwood, who was standing in Enfield Town ward in the elections on May 22, was commenting on Twitter after the comedian had called for better representation of black and ethnic minorities in British cultural life.

Political colleague Bill Price, who was also standing in the same ward for UKIP, distanced himself from the remarks, claiming that Mr Henwood was "clearly in the wrong party" and "should really be in the BNP or something".

Flats hit by blaze

May

FIREFIGHTERS battled a fierce blaze in a block of flats in the heart of Enfield Town on a busy Saturday afternoon.

Flames ripped through the ninth floor of Tower Point, in Sydney Road, just before 4pm.

No one was hurt in the inferno, which damaged half of the ninth-floor flat, with three adults and two children escaping from the flat unharmed.

London Fire Brigade said the cause of the blaze was thought to be accidental.

Eight fire engines raced to the scene and the fire was brought under control in just over an hour. Crews remained at the scene until 10.30pm.

■ A combination of spending cuts and increasing demand meant increasing numbers of mental health patients were being discharged into bed and breakfast accommodation, we revealed.

An investigation by the Health Service Journal revealed that the Barnet, Enfield and Haringey Mental Health Trust spent £264,000 on discharging patients into B&Bs in the ten months to January 2014.

Alev Cazimoglu, ward councillor for Enfield Highway and former chairwoman of Enfield Council's health and well-being scrutiny panel, said: "This money should go into front-line patient care – it doesn't make economic sense."

"I urge the government to look immediately at funding and deliver the promise they made that someone with mental health problems gets the same level of care and support as someone with a physical illness."

■ LABOUR was celebrating after increasing its majority in the local elections.

The final count of Labour councillors was 41, to 22 Conservatives. UKIP failed to win a seat, despite enjoying success in other parts of the country.

Labour group leader Doug Taylor said: "The residents of Enfield have recognised that the Labour council has done a good job over the last four years."

Spitting laws take effect – while psychic piranha hits the target

June

A TRIO of offenders found themselves before the courts after becoming the first people to fall foul of tough new anti-spitting laws.
Iqbal Chowdhury, 29, of St James Road, Edmonton, and Dawid Toczec, 29, of Winchester Road, Edmonton, were each ordered by Tottenham magistrates to pay a fine of £50, a £20 victim surcharge and £20 costs, while 18-year-old Tyrone Obanishola, of Volta Close, Edmonton, was found guilty in his absence and told to pay a £160 fine, £100 in costs and a £20 victim surcharge.
Chris Bond, Enfield Council's cabinet member for environment, said: "The message is simple – if you spit in Enfield, we'll prosecute you."

■ A desperate mother claimed she and her children had been left stranded in their Freezywater home after months of unsuccessful efforts to move to a new address, far away from an abusive ex-partner.
Rajinder Kaur, 34, of Hartmoor Mews, was offered the chance to move to Haringey – but refused after two incidents in which windows at the property were smashed.
Subsequently, Sanctuary Housing Association told her that not only was there no property for her to move to, but that her case had been downgraded after the expiration of an injunction obtained against her ex.
Ms Kaur, who had since managed to get a fresh injunction, said: "I have to get us somewhere safe to live."

■ Pele the piranha tried to fill the void left by Paul the octopus after demonstrating impressive psychic abilities as the World Cup kicked off.
David Monk, owner of Wildwoods Water Garden Centre, in Crews Hill, set Pele to work "predicting" results by offering him the choice of three pieces of fish to nibble on.
On two were national flags, while on the other was a sign saying "draw".
Pele successfully forecast the results of England's pre-tournament matches, as well as hosts Brazil's opening World Cup game against Croatia.
Mr Monk said: "He's definitely psychic."

Desperate: Rajinder Kaur (above) claimed she was 'stranded' in her Freezywater home

Football crazy: David Monk with Pele, the psychic piranha

Hospital's future seems uncertain

July

THE long saga about the future of Chase Farm Hospital reached a new turning point as it was officially handed over to the Hampstead-based Royal Free London

NHS Foundation Trust.

But whether the takeover would benefit patients was questioned by campaigners, who had fought an unsuccessful battle to stop the downgrading of the A&E and maternity units at Chase Farm, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, before promised improvements in primary care had been implemented. In advance of the acquisition, the Royal Free made it clear plans were afoot to sell part of the Chase Farm site and redevelop services across a smaller footprint in new buildings.

■ Parents campaigning for "local schools for local children" were deeply disappointed to learn that a bid to set up a new free school on Enfield's border with Barnet had failed.

Ashmole Academy had applied for funding to build the new school on its secondary school site, in Cecil Road, Southgate, but their bid was rejected by the Department for Education.

Enfield Council had acknowledged the need for more primary school places and announced plans the previous week to expand Bowes Primary School, in Bowes Road, New Southgate – but campaigners said those proposals would not help families in Southgate and Palmers Green.

■ A scheme was outlined to heat thousands of homes across the borough via a council-run company using the waste from an industrial plant.

The long-term plan is for the Lee Valley Heat Network to harness the waste from the Edmonton EcoPark, in Advent Way, in the form of heat and steam and deliver it to housing estates through an underground network of pipes.

Enfield Council aimed to heat the redeveloped Ladderswood estate, in New Southgate, by energy generated this way – before moving on to the first phase of the Meridian Water development of 5,000 new homes, in Edmonton.

New men in charge: Royal Free Foundation Trust chief executive David Sloman and chairman Dominic Dodd

Expanding: Bowes Primary School's Edmonton annex, in Nightingale Road

Doubts over workability of cycle plan

Two-way street: Cecil Road, in Enfield Town, is likely to revert if plans to improve roads for cyclists go ahead

August

A MEETING of the Enfield Conservation Area Study Group heard about reservations concerning the proposals to make the borough more cycle friendly.

Traffic consultant Ben Hamilton-Baillie told the meeting about schemes he had worked on in which streetscapes were stripped back and signs, kerbs, road markings and traffic lights were jettisoned – allowing cyclists, pedestrians and motorists to freely mix in the same space – and he urged residents to be open-minded about two-way traffic in Cecil Road, in Enfield Town.

However, Linda Miller, of Raleigh Road, questioned if Enfield Council's original plans would work and said that officers had been badly advised.

■ A councillor called on the Mayor of London to step in and do something before "someone gets killed" by cars being raced along Great Cambridge Road.

Nick Dines, from Chase ward, said that the races, which police insisted they had clamped down on last year, had reached new and unacceptable levels.

The "meets" – as they are often referred to by the speedsters – take place at the weekend after the racers meet in the car parks on industrial centres along the A10.

Mr Dines had written to Boris Johnson and was hopeful City Hall might step into the breach if local police resources were stretched.

■ A report from the Care Quality Commission revealed that North Middlesex University Hospital was struggling to cope in the aftermath of the downgrade of Chase Farm Hospital.

Dead bodies were being stored in temporary fridges, said the report, and managers had been forced to "firefight issues" since the controversial closure of the A&E department at Chase Farm, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, nine months earlier.

And Enfield Southgate MP David Burrowes revealed that he had been left in agony on a trolley for more than 12 hours after being rushed to North Mid, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, with acute appendicitis.

Labour councillor is suspended; and man is charged after horrific attack

Suspended by his party: Labour councillor Haydar Ulus

September

A 25-YEAR-OLD man from Ponders End was charged with murder after grandmother Palmira Silva was attacked in the back garden of her home in Edmonton.

Nicholas Salvador, of Gilda Avenue, declined to appear by video link at the Old Bailey and was refused bail by Judge Brian Barker QC, Recorder of London.

He had been arrested in Nightingale Road after armed police officers descended on the street following the death of Mrs Silva, 82.

Eyewitnesses described the police operation as "bigger than the Tottenham riots" as officers desperately tried to lead bystanders to safety.

"I have never seen that many police officers anywhere before," said one Nightingale Road resident. "They were knocking on doors, trying to get people out, and if no one answered they used battering rams to break the door down."

■ Squatters and environmental campaigners occupying the former Middlesex University campus, in Cat Hill, Cockfosters, were removed after the developers building 231 homes on the site were granted a possession order by a judge.

One of the protesters, from Hungary, said she was determined to stay and set up camp on the grass verge alongside the main road.

Resident Kim Coleman, from the Save Cat Hill campaign, said: "We will not give up. We will keep resisting this development because what they are doing is just not right."

She praised police officers at the scene but added that bailiffs had rifled through protesters' belongings and "left them lying everywhere".

■ Labour councillor Haydar Ulus was suspended by the national party after being accused of assaulting another man.

The charge of assault occasioning actual bodily harm related to an alleged incident in February, three months before Mr Ulus, the 35-year-old head of an Edmonton-based management company, was elected to the council for Haselbury ward.

Victim: Palmira Silva

He was allowed to carry on his duties as an independent councillor after the Labour whip was withdrawn from him.

Michel's flat misery

October

KIDNEY patient Michel Dindoyal said he was "at the end of his tether" as he tried to move to larger accommodation.

Michel, 39, was left frustrated after fruitless attempts to secure a succession of three-bedroom properties on the register of social landlord Enfield Homes.

Speaking at the one-bedroom flat he shared with wife Tracy and her 16-year-old daughter in Barrowfield Close, Edmonton, he said: "My treatment is costing thousands of pounds. I could save myself and the taxpayer a huge amount of money if I can have treatment at home."

■ The Advertiser backed efforts by the family of Hannah Defoe to get justice for the student, who died during a holiday in St Lucia.

Hannah, 20, who lived in Winchmore Hill with her parents and brother and who was a cousin of former Spurs and England footballer Jermain Defoe, lost her life after she was electrocuted when she jumped into a pool at the Juliette's Lodge hotel in Vieux Fort.

Her family was left in despair after delays to an inquest in St Lucia forced the adjournment of the equivalent UK hearing for the fifth time.

Solicitor Jannice Brennan said: "All Mr and Mrs Defoe want is to get justice for Hannah and to find out the truth of their daughter's death."

■ Mum Chris Gooch was celebrating after the government agreed to set up a panel to look into a drug blamed for causing birth defects.

Mrs Gooch, of Carnarvon Avenue, Enfield, believes her daughter's disability was caused by the medication Primodos – and her case was taken up by her MP, Nick de Bois, who chairs the all-party group on hormone pregnancy testing.

During a parliamentary debate, the MP for Enfield North said: "Primodos contained a higher concentration of hormones than the morning-after pill but was given to pregnant women. Questions urgently need to be asked."

Waiting for a move: Michel Dindoyal and his wife Tracy

REVIEW OF THE YEAR

Park plans prompt an angry response

November

RESIDENTS reacted with fury when plans to leave parks in the borough unlocked overnight were proposed by the council.

Many said that unlocked gates would result in a complete breakdown of law and order in the parks after dark as anyone would be able to get into the green spaces.

Then, just a few weeks later, their fears seemed to be realised when arsonists struck at a playground after dark one night.

The children's play area in Grovelands Park, in Southgate, was set alight causing hundreds of pounds' worth of damage.

■ A teaching union was threatening to refer the entire governing body of Lea Valley High School to Ofsted over concerns regarding staff welfare.

The stand-off between the NUT and governors at the specialist sports college, in s Lane, Enfield, erupted after the union delivered a dossier of complaints to the director of children's services at Enfield Council.

The local authority responded by appointing an independent investigator, who compiled a 43-page report, which was in turn passed on to the governing body.

Stuart McNamara, secretary of the Enfield branch of the NUT, claimed governors were "sitting" on this document, adding: "Unless the chairman of the board of governors can tell us exactly what steps they are taking, we are going to refer the matter to Ofsted."

■ An Edmonton vicar was celebrating after his church, All Saints, in Church Street, Edmonton, was awarded a massive cash windfall to restore its ancient bell tower. Reverend Stuart Owen told the Advertiser he was thrilled to have received a lump sum of £216,000 towards the cost of repairs to the grade II* listed building.

He said: "When I announced it to the congregation, they burst into applause", adding that the building was "more than just a church".

Visitor: Michael Gove at Cuckoo Hall Primary Academy

Trouble at free school chain – and senseless stabbing outside flats

December

AN acclaimed chain of free schools hit the headlines after it was revealed that three members of its management team had been suspended.

Former education secretary Michael Gove said that Patricia Sowter ‘ran schools better than the council’ when he had visited Cuckoo Hall Primary Academy, in Cuckoo Hall Lane, Edmonton.

But we revealed that Mrs Sowter, executive headteacher of the Cuckoo Hall Academies Trust, her husband and trust director Phil and Sharon Ahmet, headteacher of the primary school, had been suspended by chairwoman of the board of governors Sharon Efthymiou.

As we later revealed on the enfield-today website, Mrs Efthymiou was herself removed from her position after the board of trustees voted unanimously that she should not be involved in the investigation.

■ Lord Robert Winston paid a visit to the City Learning Centre, in Enfield, and fielded questions about climate change and the finer points of physics from an enthusiastic group of ten-year-olds.

“What makes the Earth warm up the most?” and “If the sun is a star, why isn’t it dead yet?” were just two of the questions primary school children asked the professor of science and society and emeritus professor of fertility studies at Imperial College London.

Lord Winston also highlighted the importance of getting more women involved in scientific research and said that a culture change was needed – starting at primary school.

■ People paid tribute to 53-year-old Christopher John Barry after he was stabbed to death at a block of flats in Edmonton.

Mr Barry, known as Jack, died after a minor verbal altercation with a group of teenagers trying to get inside the block, in Brickland Court, escalated with fatal consequences.

A neighbour, who asked not to be named, said: “He did no harm to anybody and never had a bad word for anybody.” A 13-year-old boy was subsequently charged with murder in connection with the incident.

Labour hopeful's 'outrage' at hospital rebuild cutback

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A PARLIAMENTARY hopeful has reacted with fury to the news that a wing of Chase Farm Hospital will not be treated to the same revamp as the rest of the site.

Joan Ryan, Labour's prospective candidate for Enfield North, said that in a pre-Christmas meeting on the redevelopment plans Andrew Panniker, the director of capital and estates for the Royal Free Hospital Trust, admitted that the current out-patients' wing – Highlands – would not be included in the multi-million-pound scheme.

Although the Highlands wing was initially pencilled in as part of the revamp, it has now emerged that the building will be mothballed while the trust concentrates on developing and redevelopment other areas.

Ms Ryan said that the decision to close the wing rather than redevelop it was "outrageous".

She added: "The proposals for the redevelopment of Chase Farm Hospital were small to begin with.

"Now they are smaller still with the announcement of the closure of the Highlands wing. After all the public consultation that has taken place, it is outrageous to radically reduce the plans in this way, just months before the rebuild begins.

"It is not the first time that the Tories have run down and sold off our health facilities. The War Memorial Hospital and Highlands Hospital were both closed under the Tories. I fear they are trying to do something similar again."

The Highlands Hospital site, in Winchmore Hill, was sold off to developers in 1993 with the proceeds of going towards the erection of the Highlands wing at Chase Farm Hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield.

Ms Ryan also took issue with the Prime Minister's assertion during Prime Minister's questions that the government was giving £230million to the Chase Farm redevelopment.

Mr Cameron was responding to a question from David Burrowes, the MP for Enfield Southgate, who asked: "Will the Prime Minister confirm that, owing to the long campaign led by my honourable friend, the member for Enfield North (Nick de

Bois), my constituents can have extended urgent care this winter and can look forward to the rebuilding, at long last, of Chase Farm Hospital in the new year?

The Prime Minister replied that the site would be improved with a multi-million-pound cash boost.

However, Ms Ryan said: "The Prime Minister got it wrong at PMQs when he said the government had set aside £230m for Chase Farm.

"Only £100m is coming from the government, with the rest provided through land sales and by the Royal Free. Much of this money will be used to sustain services only, rather than improving them."

While Ms Ryan, who was the Enfield North MP from 1997 to 2010, welcomed the news that the urgent care centre would now have longer opening times, she said that it did not go far enough.

"Urgent care needs upgrading as well as longer opening hours," she added.

A spokeswoman for the Royal Free Hospital Trust said: "Our most recent calculation has revealed that it would be more economical and it would provide us with higher quality clinical space, if we were to deliver all our services in new buildings, rather than adapting the Highlands wing.

"We are committed to delivering the services detailed in the Barnet, Enfield and Haringey clinical strategy."

MPs welcome funding boost

MPs have welcomed a massive funding boost for health services in the borough with local services getting a windfall pay-out.

In the Chancellor of the Exchequer's autumn statement last month, George Osborne announced that certain clinical commissioning groups across the borough would benefit from an increase in funding.

And last week it was announced that NHS England had decided that Enfield would receive more than seven per cent extra funding with a new allocation of £360,706 for the next financial year, 2015/16.

NHS England was given discretion to boost the funding in boroughs that were identified as struggling to cope with increased population and reduced hospital services, such as Enfield, where residents have complained about lack of primary care provision in the wake of the downgrading of Chase Farm Hospital, in The Ridgeway.

Enfield North MP Nick de Bois, whose constituents were particularly affected by the closure of the Chase Farm A&E and maternity units, said: "We have campaigned for a boost in funding such as this and I am pleased with this decision which comes after years of underfunding going back as far as 2001."

His Conservative colleague David Burrowes, the MP for Enfield Southgate, echoed Mr de Bois's statement and added: "I am pleased that Enfield is at last getting its fair slice of the cake with one of the highest allocations in London."

The news of the funding boost came in the same week that Enfield Clinical Commissioning Group announced that opening hours at the urgent care centre at Chase Farm Hospital would be extended.

The centre will open from 8am to 10pm seven days a week from the end of December and will operate these new hours until the CCG's review of urgent care services in Enfield, due to be carried out in the summer.

Free school chain's trust removes its chairwoman

THE chairwoman of a schools' trust board who suspended three senior members of staff has been removed from the position.

Parents have been informed in a letter that the board of the Edmonton-based Cuckoo Hall Academies Trust had agreed unanimously that Andry Efthymiou would "no longer be involved" in the trust or any of its schools until the current investigation by the Department for Education into allegations of gross misconduct was concluded.

Last month the Advertiser revealed that the trust's executive headteacher Patricia Sowter, her husband Phil Sowter, who is one of the trust's directors, and the headteacher of Cuckoo Hall Primary Academy Sharon Ahmet had been suspended by Ms Efthymiou.

A Department for Education spokesman said that he could not comment on the "wide-reaching" investigation.

In the letter sent to parents the trust board's interim chief Marino Charalambous said: "Despite recent difficulties, we all remain completely committed to providing the best possible education for your children across our five academies and will do everything we can to minimise any disruption caused."

A spokesman for the trust said it was "working hard to ensure that CHAT schools continued to operate as normal."

He added: "The board will continue to assist the investigation until it is completed in the new year."

In a letter sent to parents last month Ms Efthymiou said that the management team was working with the Department for Education, school inspectors Ofsted and Enfield Council while the suspensions were in place.

A week later she announced that one of its existing deputy headteachers, David Penkert, was covering the role of headteacher and was working closely with the other deputy, Phillip Pearce, and the senior management team "to ensure the normal smooth running of the academy."

In 2010, the then Secretary of State for Education Michael Gove was at the official launch of the upgraded Cuckoo Hall Academy.

Three years later Mr Gove said that Mrs Sowter ran schools "better than the local authority" and had a "luminous intelligence".

Super Mario's still going strong – a decade after life-saving transplant

Survivor urges more to consider organ donation

By Julia Gregory

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

TEN years ago a very sick Mario Scannella was told that he would be dead by Christmas unless he had a heart transplant – now he is urging people to add their names to the organ donation register to give other seriously ill people the gift of life.

His heart transplant came after a very difficult few months as he became gravely ill.

His wife Amanda had just had their first son Oliver, but Mr Scannella had been feeling very unwell for months as doctors tried to discover what was wrong.

He said: "I could not walk very well, I was out of breath. I literally had no energy, my life had shut down."

The 44-year-old mechanic, from Winchmore Hill, eventually had a heart operation, but was still feeling unwell when he was rushed into intensive care suffering from cardiomyopathy, an unusual form of heart failure. He said: "They gave me a bag of pills and said if you don't have a heart transplant you'll be dead by Christmas."

Despite his apprehension, he joined the waiting list and had two false alarms that a suitable organ might be available before he was given a new heart after just a six-week wait.

His life was transformed after the surgery and Mr Scannella, of Woodland Way, is encouraging people to join the donor list.

He said: "I would say to people, just join the organ donation register. What better gift than giving your organ to save someone else's life. I can't think of a better thing to do."

"We all like to give presents and make someone happy. Just think, an organ donation could save someone's life."

This Christmas, Mr Scannella celebrated with his three boys, Oliver, ten, Dominic, nine, and Eliot, five – an event which would have been impossible without the gift of a new heart. In July, he marked the decade since the operation with a 65-mile charity bike ride with his friends to raise money for Papworth Hospital Charity in Cambridgeshire.

He trained at the gym at Enfield's David Lloyd Centre, in Carterhatch Lane, and on the roads around the borough. The team completed the route from London to Cambridge in four hours and 20 minutes and raised £1,600.

However, while a heart transplant transformed his life, there are 25 other people in Enfield this year who are on the organ transplant list and a further 17 people from the borough have died in the past four years as they awaited a transplant.

Mr Scannella said he would like more people to sign up to the organ donor register to help give other seriously ill people the chance of a new lease of life.

They can sign up online at www.organisation.nhs.uk, or by calling 0300 123 23 23, or by texting SAVE to 62323.

Looking forward: Mario Scannella, who had a heart transplant 10 years ago

Nicole makes it a nappy Christmas at North Mid

By Julia Gregory
newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A NEWLY-refurbished maternity ward opened in time for Christmas, marking the end of a five-year-long, £200million programme to modernise North Middlesex University Hospital.

And baby Nicole was the first arrival on Christmas Day. The 6lb 14oz girl was born just before 12.30am and her delighted parents Elisabeth and Harry Spinthiras, from Palmers Green, said: "She's gorgeous."

The 31-bed ward moved from its temporary location in the Pymmes building at the North Mid to its new home in the tower building at the hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton.

It is kitted out with single, double and four-bedded bays with en suite bathrooms and a television by every bed. There is also a nursery, a training room and a discharge lounge and deep armchairs for dads to use when they spend the night at the ward.

Mother Rhiannan Hooper, from Enfield, was one of 14 women who were transferred to the new ward on December 20.

She gave birth to a girl the day before and was one of the first to try out the new ward.

She said: "It makes such a difference to mums to have a lovely place to be looked after in."

Ward matron Stella Roberts said: "The maternity team did a fantastic job moving our mums and their babies in. We made the ward change in a single day."

The ward change is the last in the five-year, £200m modernisation plan, which included expanding the accident and emergency department and opening new children's, medical and surgical and stroke wards.

The multi-million-pound scheme means that 80 per cent of the services are now provided from facilities which are less than six years old.

The latest work also marks the end of a year-long development as part of the Barnet, Enfield and Haringey clinical strategy at North Mid.

THE London Model Engineering Exhibition is regarded as one of the largest model engineering and modelling exhibitions in the UK – and we have three pairs of family tickets to give away.

Now in its 19th year, the exhibition will return once again to Alexandra Palace, Wood Green, from January 16 to 18 2015.

Visitors to the show will see a full spectrum of modelling, from traditional model engineering, steam locomotives and traction engines, through to Airfix kits, operational miniatures, modern gadgets and toys including futuristic rockets, remote control trucks, boats, aeroplanes, helicopters and robots.

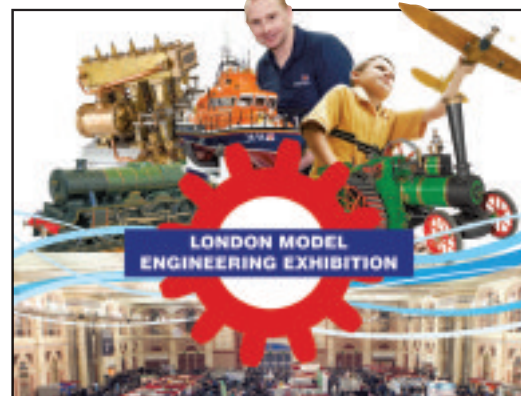

This year's event sees the welcome return of Robot Wars including Major Damage and Matilda, along with the British Model Flying Association, Tamiya Trucking Group, Brickish, The UK Tank Club, The Imaginering Foundation and the Polly Owners Group, who provide passenger rides behind the five-inch gauge steam locomotives in the Great Hall. The popular Model Active Zone features fascinating demonstrations and actively encourages visitors of all ages to take part.

With so much to see and do under one roof, the London Model Engineering Exhibition is a great day out for all the family.

For further details, visit www.londonmodelengineering.co.uk – and for your chance to win a pair of tickets to the show, simply answer this question:

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

3. To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, 'Trade Advertisers' must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

4. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;

(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or

(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, proofs, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement. I.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Trade Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties.

We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

Nothing to fear: Harry Kane believes that Tottenham Hotspur have every chance of picking up points against Chelsea

Pochettino expecting a quiet transfer window for Tottenham

HEAD coach Mauricio Pochettino is expecting a quiet January transfer window for Tottenham Hotspur.

The club confirmed last week that American right-back DeAndre Yedlin, who officially signed for Spurs over the summer, will finally make the move to White Hart Lane when the transfer window officially opens.

But Pochettino has claimed that he is happy with his squad and insists that he will not put chairman Daniel Levy under any pressure to make further signings.

"January is not about whether we sign a player or not," he said. "I am happy with my squad and I never put pressure on the club to sign a player."

"As head coach I try to explain to the chairman and the sporting director my thoughts, and after that we decide together what is best for the club."

"DeAndre is a young player with great potential who has already achieved a lot in Major League Soccer."

"It is important for his development that he is given time to adapt to his new surroundings both on and off the pitch, and we believe that by coming to us in January it will give him the best opportunity to do so."

And Pochettino expressed his satisfaction at Spurs' performances in their two matches in the past week, with Sunday's 0-0 draw against Manchester United following on from a 2-1 victory at Leicester City on Boxing Day.

"The second half against United was very good," he said. "Our fitness level was very good and that showed we're in a good moment. We made a big effort and for that, congratulations to the players."

"I was happy with the result at Leicester, the three points were so important for us. We've showed character in every game, and it's important to keep this feeling."

"It was a very tough game. We scored early and managed the first 30 minutes very well, but you need to kill the game off. Leicester started to push, to play better and the second half was very difficult for us."

FEELING UPBEAT

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

HARRY KANE insists that Tottenham Hotspur do not fear anyone as they get set to entertain Premier League leaders Chelsea on New Year's Day.

Spurs continued their encouraging run of form by holding third-placed Manchester United to a 0-0 draw on Sunday to leave them seventh in the table.

And Kane believes that they do now have the confidence to take on the top sides feeling that they can get a positive result.

"Mentally, we were beaten before we stepped out on the pitch because we were up against a bigger-named team," he said. "That isn't the case any more."

"We need to go into these games believing we can win. We haven't done it in the past few years, but that is something that has got to change."

"We have to change and believe we have got the ability to win these games. Players mentally have experienced losing and don't want it to happen again against these big teams."

"We're confident at the moment. We're winning games so why not? These are going to be tough games, but we're ready for it and going for three points. The manager has built confidence and belief. The lads have taken to it and there is nothing better than the big games at home."

Tottenham head into 2015 just two points adrift of the top four, and Kane is hopeful that they can make a real push for Champions League qualification over the second half of the season.

"Getting in that top four is tough," he added. "There are some top teams that want to get into it. You've got to put in good performances and get wins at the end of the day, but it's exciting."

"For us, we'd like it to be as easy as possible, but we're aware it's not going to be easy this year. We've got to forget all the other sides and just get as many wins as we can and see where it takes us."

"The top four is wide open at the minute. There are a lot of teams in the hunt, so we just need to keep performing and keep focused, get some wins and see where it puts us in the table."

"There is so much football to be played. It's still wide open for anyone who puts on a good run."

Sunday's clash saw Hugo Lloris named man of the match after making a string of fine saves in the first half, but Spurs improved in the second period and the keeper was delighted with the effort that they put in.

"We finished the game stronger than United physically," he said. "I think overall the draw was fair because in the first half they had some good chances but we were strong and, after that, we know we have the quality to score a goal at any moment."

"The spirit was great, we fought all the way and at the end we were close to scoring. That was important for the confidence."

"We need to keep going because there is another big game against Chelsea. We need to recover well and to prepare in the best way possible."
